What You Don't Do CAN Hurt You...

Date: April 14, 2006 CPE Hours: 8 Hours

Instructor: Larry Finney,

Greene, Finney, Horton, LLP

Cost: $90 Member $110 Non-Member

What You Don't Do CAN Hurt You...at least when it comes to internal controls, policies and procedures. It's that old risk vs. reward and cost vs. benefit analyses again; how much risk am I willing to accept for not having certain controls versus how much cost I am willing to incur to have certain controls? And what is so important about documenting my policies and procedures in writing anyway? Let's talk about all of this and spend some time getting creative too.; come prepared to think creatively about how we can have our rewards and benefits, but still reduce our costs and risks. This is important stuff that gets overlooked too often, so don't miss out on the fun!

Governmental Accounting and Auditing Update

Date: June 16, 2006 CPE Hours: 8 Hours

Instructor: Wayne Sams

State Auditor's Office

Cost: $90 Member $110 Non-Member

This course is designed to assist you in understanding recent releases by GASB, OMB, GFOA, and the AICPA. The course is topical in nature and will include a lively discussion of the current issues and how those issues impact your operating environment. Exercises will be provided to enhance your understanding of the relevant issues.

The Politics of Budgeting

Date: August 25, 2006 CPE Hours: 8 Hours

Instructor: Mike Shealy

Cost: $90 Member $110 Non-Member

The first Chancellor of the German Empire Otto von Bismarck once said, "laws are like sausages. It's better not to see them being made." The single most important law passed each year by the South Carolina General Assembly is the annual appropriations bill. Is the process of writing that bill really like making sausage?

We will begin the class by studying recommended budgeting practices as prescribed by the Government Finance Officers Association. Then we will compare the recommended practices with the reality of the state budget in the Palmetto State.
